The faculty summoned the leaders of the two classes to day and demanded that they pay the damage and also sign at agreement to refrain from joining in any class fight during their stay in school, under threat of expulsion for refusal. The students agreed to pay all the damage but refused to sign such an agreement, saying that if would only be natural for them to join in any class affray that might arise and that it would be next to impossible to keep the pledge.

it would be next to impossible to keep the pledge. The faculty will act upon their refusal to-morrow at its regular session. The students have demanded another trial for the suspended collegians. If the suspensions stand the two classes declare they will remain out with those suspended. The sophomores and freshmen have signified their intentions of joining them, when the strike of last year will be repeated. BEDRIDDEN 30 YEARS, NOW WALKS Christian Scientists, It is Said, Awakened Mrs. Gardiner From Her Delusion.

Lyons, N. The plaintiff alleges that he is an expert in the sciences of geography and geology. Early in August, 1866, Pearson says he was employed by Hill tolocate coal in Cascade county. Mon., and Whatcom county, Wash, with a fixed compensation of $200 a month, but that in the event of success the compensation should be proportionately increased.

Pearson says he located immense coal fields in both counties. Hill has since acquired title to 5,421 acres of coal land in Montana, containing 69,415,400 tons of coal and worth $14,778,800. Similar large holdings were secured by the road in Washington. Although all this wealth was discovered by him, the plaintiff says he has received only $130 despite the fact that his negotiations were carried on personally with Mr. Hill

There was no hearing of the Foshingh case in my office and I was not officially consulted to John C Pegram is Mr Sheidon's legal adviser for business purposes Mr Pegram called upon me as a brother lawyer and said that Mr Sheidon had consulted him and assed him if there was any law under which Mr Sheidon's daughter rould be sub-permed to appear before a tribunal in another Stale.

parased to appear before a tribunal in another state. Mr. Tanner told Mr. Sheldon, so he said, that he knew of no power, no law, under which Miss Sheldon could be made to go into Massachusetts as a witness.

"Mr. Pegram felt sure in that decision, but, for the sake of absolute certaints, knowing that laws are easily passed and amended and apprehensive that some statutory charge implied have been made which had slipped his attention, he called upon me. I told him that his opinion was solidly based and after a friendly chat on other matters, Mr. Pegram left the office.

rosburgh will engage well-knowll New York attorneys to assist former District Attorney Charles I. Hibbard of this city in the defence of his son.

Young Fosburgh returned to the new plant of the Stanley Electric Company this morning at 9 o'clock and took up the work of supervising the construction of the plant where he left off when he was agrested on Saturday morning. He chatted freely with his friends and expressed himself entirely satisfied with the manner in which the newspapers had treated his case.

"There's a report that Miss Sheldon is to come on from Providence and tell her story Is that true?" he was asked.

"We have heard nothing to that effect," was his reply.

"I understand that she is still suffering from nervousness."

"Yes, indeed, she is."

Mr. Fosburgh said that on account of this nervousness Miss Sheldon had been taken from college and that she and her father had taken a trip for the benefit of her health Reference was made to the numerous stories about the murder, and Mr. Fosburgh said. "There is only one story. That was given to the reporters on the morning of the burglary."
